The 6th World Conference of the International Federation for Public History and its partners, the Freie Universität Berlin, the National Council on Public History, the German Historical Association (VHD) and its working group on applied/public history (AGPH), the American Historical Association, the Leibniz Centre for Contemporary History in Potsdam (ZZF), and ICOM Germany are now accepting poster proposals for their upcoming joint public history conference in Berlin. The 2-hour poster session will either be on Thursday or Friday afternoon.

Posters offer an opportunity for those eager to share their public history projects using visual and material evidence. We are interested in displaying innovative public history projects that engage with relevant issues to the field.

Proposals must be submitted in English via ConfTool: <https://www.conftool.net/ifph2022/>, and include: a) a poster title, b) an abstract of no more than 1500 characters explaining the project and its relevance for public history, c) a brief explanation of special needs for the poster display, and d) a simple visual mock-up of the display (saved and uploaded as PDF). Posters will be no larger than 90 x 120 cm. Posters will be printed for free for you on site. Students whose poster is accepted will get a free conference registration.

If your presentation was already accepted for the general program you cannot submit a poster proposal!

The results of the Call for Posters will be announced no later than June 30, 2022.
