

Geschichts- und Kulturwissenschaften
Institut für Turkologie
Gastvortrag von

Dr. Valeriya Lemskaya

Senior Research Fellow, Linguistic Anthropology Laboratory, Tomsk State University

am

Donnerstag, den 7.12.2017

im

Raum 1.2052, Fabeckstr. 23 -25, 14195 Berlin

On Morphosyntactic and Morphophonological Variation in Middle Chulym Turkic

Chulym Turkic has long proven to be a language with a number of irregularities both interesting and hard to solve in Turkology. The language itself is still spoken in the Western Siberia along the River Chulym (the Lower dialect is considered extinct, with only the Middle dialect remaining). Fewer than a dozen 'fluent speakers' and up to several dozens 'semi-fluent' speakers or 'semi-speakers' are estimated for Chulym Turkic. Despite the few speakers and a rather limited area of distribution, the language itself displays a great variation in its morphosyntax / morphophonology. The lecture is aimed at discussing these cases with consideration of the field data material collected within 2006-2016.

Hierzu laden herzlich ein
Prof. Dr. Claus Schönig - Prof. Dr. Elisabetta Ragagnin
M.A. Ayşe Tetik – M.A. Sophie Nientimp
Institut für Turkologie