

Academic Communication at the Master's Level

New course for GeschKult students in English-medium M.A. programmes

Do you want to improve your English writing and communicative skills in an academic context? This course focuses on the academic conventions and vocabulary critical to effective academic writing (i.e. abstract, critical response, literature review) while also allowing you to deepen your understanding of scholarly discourse in your specific discipline. A secondary emphasis is placed on presentation skills and participating in academic conversation and inquiry in a multi-disciplinary setting.

Registration opens on 16 March 2026 via an online form (not Campus Management). We will send you an email confirming whether you have received a place two days before the course begins. Scan the QR-codes on the right for more details and access to the registration form.
